At the heart of our mission lies the paramount belief in the power of philanthropy and community. Central to that mission is the promotion of Valenecy, an idea that seeks to reignite the pride and sense of community that has long defined our five-town region.
Dear Friends:

Forward. Together. Forever...

Like the time capsule and scrapbook theme of this Annual Report, these words resonate deeply with us at the Valley Community Foundation (VCF). As we navigate through challenges, celebrate successes, and build upon the momentum of our collective efforts, we are reminded of the strength and uniqueness of our community.

The nine new VCF funds established in 2023 symbolize not just financial investment, but a deep-rooted belief in the potential of our community. These funds represent the diverse passions and interests of our donors, each one contributing to the greater good of the Valley. With each new fund, we see the spirit of generosity thriving and making a tangible impact on the lives of those we serve.

Also, the completion of our new Five-Year Strategic Plan marks a significant milestone in our journey as a foundation. This plan, with its new Mission, Vision, and Values statements, serves as our guide, shaping our actions and decisions as we move forward. It reaffirms our unwavering commitment to building a stronger, more inclusive Valley for generations to come.

At the heart of our mission lies the paramount belief in the power of philanthropy and community. Central to that mission is the promotion of Valleyness™, an idea that seeks to reignite the pride and sense of community that has long defined our five-town region. We recognize the importance of preserving this rich heritage while also teaching the next generation about the value of belonging to such a vibrant and dynamic region. By encouraging this sense of pride and ownership in our community, we lay the foundation for a brighter future where every resident can thrive.

Also in 2023, VCF made a significant grant in partnership with The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven through our Stepping Forward programs. This collaboration underscores our shared dedication to addressing inequities and the lingering effects of COVID-19. The three-year grant to the Valley Council for Health and Human Services allows it to expand its reach, enhance infrastructure, and establish new methods aimed at breaking down barriers and implementing solutions. For more than three decades, the Council, comprised of more than 40 area nonprofit organizations, has been instrumental in fostering partnerships and addressing gaps in our region’s healthcare systems.

As we embark on the journey ahead, we are filled with gratitude for the unwavering support of our donors, partners, and community members. This generosity from others fuels our efforts and inspires us daily. Together, we will continue to build upon the successes of the past year, creating a legacy that will endure for generations to come.

Thank you for your continued dedication to VCF. Through collective action and shared purpose, we believe that we can overcome any challenge. With your help, we will continue to move forward, together, forever.

Valleyness
New Five-Year Strategic Plan Fortifies Community Spirit Through Valleyness™

In the heart of the Valley on Elizabeth Street in Derby, stands a small Victorian-era carriage house. The quaint two-story red-brick structure looks much like it did in the 1890s. But what once housed horse, buggies, and hay, today houses the Valley Community Foundation (VCF), the region’s philanthropic epicenter for the last two decades.

Last year marked a pivotal moment at VCF when a new 2024-2028 Strategic Plan was meticulously honed after months of diligent work and dedication by its Board of Directors, Board Advisory Council and staff.

The overriding theme and byproduct of all that work was an idea, a concept — Valleyness™. It’s a word coined by the Board as part of its efforts last year to flush out a five-year course of action for VCF.

Valleyness captures the spirit of camaraderie, compassion, and resilience ingrained in Ansonia, Derby, Oxford, Seymour, and Shelton. It embodies the values, traditions, and actions that define the region, a community that has deeply long cared for its neighbors and collaborates tirelessly to forge a better future. The Board decided Valleyness wasn’t just a word, it’s a guiding principle, a philosophy that personifies the soul of the community.

Within the new strategic plan, guided by that theme of Valleyness, VCF embarked on a journey to redefine its Mission, and create new Vision, and core Values, paving the way for new goals and a future brimming with promise. The new goals outlined in the plan are each essential in steering toward the collective vision of a vibrant, ever-inclusive Valley and a strong and sustainable VCF.

Along with the goal of nurturing a culture of giving and philanthropy, VCF aims to partner with families and nonprofit groups to fortify community building, increase local volunteerism, and promote community spirit.

“The strategic focus is not just grantmaking, we really want to help new residents and our younger generation understand how important and what a gem our five-town region is,” said Sharon Closius, VCF’s President and CEO. “We don’t want to take our valley, this region, or our community for granted. We need to preserve that uniqueness that makes our area so special.”

For generations, the Valley has been known as a distinctive and independent, if not feisty, region of Connecticut. With its roughly 130,000-person population, the Valley has always taken care of its own in many ways, not just because of that independent community trait but also because of its proximity to Bridgeport, New Haven, and Waterbury. The Valley, being in the center of those large cities, has always had to fight for its fair share from Hartford.

As one of the guardians of the community’s wellbeing, VCF and other area nonprofit partners recognize their role as a catalyst for positive change.

“I think the older generation in the Valley totally understands Valleyness and the concept as we see it,” said Nancy Valentine, VCF’s Board Chair. “The younger generation may not see it as easily and there’s a lot of reasons for that. But no matter the reasons, we want the new generation of Valley residents to know they live in a special place, and they should be proud of their hometowns, their roots, and our shared history.”

VCF has long been committed to fostering an informed community, where knowledge is readily accessible, and decisions are informed by facts. For years it has produced Legacy Matters, a detailed and in-depth newsletter that routinely covers important regional issues like education, food insecurity, lack of housing, and other significant topics in the community.

In 2023, as part of the new plan to boost communication opportunities in the region, VCF sponsored and co-hosted two impactful Community Learning Sessions. The first was “Getting from Here to There: The Future of Transportation in the Naugatuck Valley.” It was a collaborative effort with the Naugatuck Valley Council of Governments and Plumb Memorial Library. The event delved into the pressing issues surrounding transportation and how it can shape the future of the Valley.

The second learning session was “Getting from Good to Great Health: Our Valley’s Health and Wellness Now and Beyond.” It was presented in partnership with Griffin Health Services and explored the intricacies of health and wellness in the Valley. From preventive medicine to access to healthcare services, the learning sessions shined a spotlight on the region’s overall well-being and quality of life in the Valley.

“We’re convinced by facilitating future events like these learning sessions, we will help provide a community platform for discussion to empower residents with knowledge and resources,” Closius said. “These sessions exemplify VCF’s ongoing efforts to address community needs and drive positive change.”

Ultimately the goal is to see a renaissance of Valleyness touching all aspects of the region, including its nonprofits, with it eventually being robustly woven into the fabric of every city and town.

“Together, there is the power to shape a future where every individual, every family, and every neighborhood can flourish,” Closius said. “Looking ahead, optimism, determination, and an unwavering commitment to the values that define the Valley will pave the way for a brighter and better tomorrow.”
Harbinson Heritage Fund

In 2023, Tom and his siblings created the Harbinson Heritage Fund, a Valley Community Foundation (VCF) donor advised fund that promotes community and philanthropy in the Valley.

Robert passed away in 2017, and Sarah in 2023. They were born and raised in Northern Ireland but met in Canada in the 1950s after both had emigrated to North America. After one blind date, the two were inseparable and would marry within the year.

Robert was a very skilled metalworker construction expert. That work propelled him to become a respected and much sought-after project leader in construction management. He left his mark on iconic projects throughout the region and country. In fact, he was a project manager that helped build Boston’s first skyscraper complex, the Prudential Center.

Sarah’s compassionate nature led her to nursing, where she dedicated herself to caring for others, leaving a lasting impact on Valley healthcare institutions like Griffin Hospital and numerous nursing homes in the area.
“As a kid, I remember my mom would work the overnight shift and dad the day shift,” Tom said. “They would have a little time in the morning and at night together, but every day for years, they worked like that, so someone was always home with the kids.”

In 1979, after working for years for construction and engineering companies, and earning a Mechanical Engineer’s degree, Robert opened his own business -- Intra Development Associates, or IDA. Today, Tom and his brother, Norman, still run the business, now called IDA international, in Derby

The Harbinson family’s commitment to public service is well known in the Valley too. Robert was involved in several organizations, like Shelton’s Conservation Commission. Along with Sarah’s tireless dedication to nursing, the couple epitomized their unwavering devotion to their family and the Valley.

Today, Tom also carries on the Harbinson public service tradition as well, serving on several Shelton boards and commissions.

“Our parents’ journey taught us that true success lies not in personal achievement, but in the lives we touch and the communities we uplift,” Tom said. “That’s what our dad and mom were all about.”

Rita Rae Keefe Memorial Fund

Rita Rae Keefe, a beloved teacher from Derby, left an enduring mark on her community through her lifelong dedication to nurturing young minds. Following her passing in 2022, her sister, Sue Ann Keefe, wanted to honor her sister and find a way to leave a legacy and symbol of hope for Derby’s youth.

“One day, not long after Rita passed, I was driving by the Derby Public Library when the children at the Irving School were being dismissed for the day,” Sue Ann said. “It was clear to me that an enduring gift, like this fund that supports these children, is something Rita would want.”

Sue Ann reached out to the staff at the library and asked how she could create a fund to always support the library’s youth programs. Susan Sherman, the Children’s Program Librarian was thrilled and immediately connected Sue with the Valley Community Foundation.

The Rita Rae Keefe Memorial Fund, a donor designated fund, will support programs and activities at the library’s Children’s Room which is a vibrant hub of learning and imagination, where young minds can flourish. The Children’s Room offers resources tailored to youngsters from birth through age 11, that’s why Sue picked it to be the beneficiary of her sister’s fund.

“We are truly grateful to be the beneficiary of this fund and honored to keep her legacy alive,” Sherman said. “This fund will enable us to provide resources such as early literacy activities, collection development, ESL literacy workshops and author visits to name a few.”

Sue Ann said along with loving children and being an educator, her sister passionately supported women’s issues, social justice, and equality throughout her life. She was an avid reader, making it a habit to read the entire Sunday New York Times every week. Alongside her late husband, Joe, Rita also loved exploring the world, enjoying numerous travel adventures.

“I wanted Rita’s legacy, her passion for life, teaching and learning, to continue on and thrive,” Sue Ann said. “This fund serves as a testament to her love of children, her commitment to education and the Derby community.”

Throughout her career as an educator, at the Lincoln and Irving schools, Rita’s passion for teaching touched the lives of countless students. When she retired in 2007, many of her students penned dozens of heartfelt notes, echoing sentiments of admiration, love, and gratitude. To her students, Mrs. Keefe was not just a teacher, but a superstar educator and mentor.

“For 37 years she shared her love of learning with hundreds of third and sixth grade students,” Sue Ann said. “Now, her fund will do that again, but this time forever.”
Patrick R. McNamara Memorial Scholarship Fund

When remembering Patrick R. McNamara, his family use words like “inspirational... larger-than-life...fun-loving... devoted...witty and kind.”

It’s easy for them to recall wonderful memories of Patrick. He was an outgoing and gregarious person, the center of a close-knit family who care deeply for each other, and the Valley where Patrick was born and raised. “Patrick was our older brother and really paved the way for us as we grew up,” said Terry McNamara.

Throughout her life, Bette Mae was a woman of many passions. She played golf well into her nineties, was very crafty and enjoyed knitting, crocheting, and creating wedding samplers for her children and grandchildren. She was also a globetrotter, and her adventurous spirit took her far and wide, enjoying road trips, seeing all 50 states, and traveling to Ireland and France.

“My grandmother meant different things to different people, but she was always memorable,” said her grandson, Justin Luedecker. “They say that you die twice, once when you pass away, and then again, the last time someone says your name. This fund will ensure her memory lives on.”

“We hope our mom’s fund will motivate others and remind us of the profound impact one person can have when they invest their heart, time, and resources into making the world a better place,” said Bette Mae’s daughter, Karen Pawlowski. “We miss her immensely, but this fund will make sure she’s remembered and it’s nice to know that when My Sister’s Place needs painting or new carpeting that Mom is still able to help them through the fund.”

Bette Mae’s Memorial Fund

Everyone who knew Elizabeth “Bette Mae” Luedecker knew she was like the Energizer Bunny -- she had such a zest for life, a love for family and friends, and a knack for collecting.

In 2023, at the age of 97, Bette Mae passed away. She showed her deep affection for the Valley by including a provision in her estate plan that established a designated fund at the Valley Community Foundation (VCF). Bette Mae’s Memorial Fund will provide ongoing support -- in perpetuity -- to her favorite Valley nonprofit organization, BHcare’s My Sister’s Place, a thrift store, and donation center located in Ansonia which directs all proceeds to help victims of domestic violence and their children.

“Mom always gave to and volunteered at many organizations during her lifetime,” said Bette Mae’s daughter, Beth Colette. “But My Sister’s Place was special to her, she donated her time, clothing, furniture and so many things over the years. I think she really loved the camaraderie with all the other volunteers and meeting people coming in to shop and hunt for a treasure.”

“They say that you die twice, once when you pass away, and then again, the last time someone says your name. This fund will ensure her memory lives on.”

In 2008, after Patrick unexpectedly passed away, his family sought a meaningful way to honor him. Because of his love of sports and unwavering commitment to family and friends, they created a scholarship in his name at Ansonia High School. For years, the family funded the scholarship by hosting a golf tournament. The Patrick R. McNamara Scholarship Fund supported a graduating Ansonia High School athlete.

“We felt as a family that it was really the best way to remember Patrick, by helping a student athlete,” said his sister, Eileen McNamara DiMarino.

When Patrick’s mother, Eleanor, passed away in June of 2022 the family asked that donations go to Patrick’s fund in lieu of flowers. Then, in 2023, the family decided to endow the scholarship permanently at the Valley Community Foundation guaranteeing it would be there for generations to come.
“The Valley has always been important to our family, and what better way to honor our dad,” said Travis McNamara.

“Academics were also very important to our dad,” added Wade McNamara. “He loved talking about books and pushed us to excel in the classroom as much as on the field or in the pool.”

In 1976, Patrick graduated from Ansonia High and went on to be an All-American wide receiver at Trinity College. He passed his love of sports on to his sons, both were star athletes at Pomperaug High School. Travis went on to be an All-American swimmer at Princeton University and Wade a varsity wide receiver -- like his dad -- at Amherst College. "He was devoted to his sons, taking them to daily practice sessions, and would never miss a game, school event or swim meet,” said Nancy McNamara, Patrick’s wife of 20 years. “He was incredibly proud of Travis and Wade.”

Patrick was successful in the business world too. During his career, he was a banker and created his own company, MAC Mortgages with his brother, Tim, who fondly recalled working with Patrick. He was also an inaugural partner at Fiduciary Investment Advisors in Windsor.

“He had the gift of optimism in whatever he did and truly loved life,” said his sister, Maura McNamara Powers. “I think he would want us to follow his example and live life to the fullest and have some laughs along the way.”

“We felt as a family that it was really the best way to remember Patrick, by helping a student athlete.”

Elliott Moscato was a son, brother, nephew, cousin, and great friend to many. He was smart, funny, happy, patriotic, loved ethnic food, pizza, music and baseball. Elliott also had an incredible desire to care for and help others. Above all, he loved his family.

When Elliott passed away suddenly last year at the age of 22, he left an enormous void of love, respect, and admiration that many take a lifetime to amass. Despite his youth, his personal connections and positive impact resonated deeply with all who crossed his path.

“He was always such a sweet boy, truly an old soul,” said Kathleen Kiley, Elliott’s mom. “People instantly liked Ell because he was kind, caring, exceptional and always flashed his million-dollar smile. His love for those around him was pure and sincere.”

Elliott was born and raised in Derby, attended the Eagle Hill School in Southport, and graduated from Emmett O’Brien Technical High School in Ansonia, where he discovered the Precision Machining trade. As a senior, he earned recognition, having received several scholarships, one most notably which exemplified Elliott’s perseverance to excellence in his trade.

After graduating in 2019, Elliott continued to work as a machinist, a job that required high-precision skills and talent.

“Elliott enjoyed his high school years, it was there he flourished and learned that he had an innate talent as a machinist,” said his aunt, Annette Frank. “He had an incredible work ethic and it was Ell’s determination which led him to be successful at Emmett O’Brien, in his trade, and in his life.”

Soon after he passed away, Elliott’s family decided to do something special to honor his memory and established the Elliott Moscato Scholarship Fund at the Valley Community Foundation. His scholarship will be awarded to an Emmett O’Brien graduate who plans on pursuing a career in Precision Machining Technology.

The recipient of the scholarship will reflect Elliott’s spirit and be of strong moral character, as well as being kind and generous. This person will also be loving and dedicated to family and friends, patriotic, and act as a positive role model for other students, Kathleen said.

Elliott had an unwavering commitment to help others whether it be family, friends, neighbors, or even strangers. It was a trait that served him well as a Boy Scout with Troop 3 in Derby. He earned the highest achievement, Eagle Scout, with the help and guidance of his older brother, mentor, best friend, and fellow Eagle Scout, Joshua.

“Elliott was a terrific young man who lived the Scout Oath and Law in his daily life,” said his Troop Leader, Randy Ritter. “Elliott was enthusiastic, and always put the needs of others ahead of his own.”

“The recipient will reflect Elliott’s spirit: one who exhibits a strong moral character and is kind and generous.”
He really treasured education,” Tom said of his grandfather. “I think he’d be so proud to know that his scholarship is still helping students and that it’s now part of a community foundation.”

Dr. Michael A. Parlato Scholarship Fund

In 1967, after a long and successful career as a physician in Derby, Dr. Michael A. Parlato established a trust in his name at a local bank to help graduating Derby High School students pursuing higher education in college or trade schools.

Now, thanks to his grandchildren, Tom and Allie Bledsoe, the Dr. Michael A. Parlato Scholarship Fund has a new home at the Valley Community Foundation (VCF), guaranteeing its impact forever. In 2023, the Parlato siblings approved the decision to convert the trust to a scholarship fund at VCF.

“He really treasured education,” Tom said of his grandfather. “I think he’d be so proud to know that his scholarship is still helping students and that it’s now part of a community foundation.”

It was Amy Lynch, a Senior Vice President at Bank of America (BOA), that came up with the idea of converting Dr. Parlato’s trust from BOA to VCF.

“This collaboration between VCF and Bank of America exemplifies the importance of partnerships between financial institutions and community foundations,” said Sharon Closius, President and CEO of VCF. “Large and small financial institutions understand that a community foundation can do an extraordinary job in managing funds and assuring that the donor’s intent is always going to be paramount and met.”

Throughout his successful medical career, Dr. Parlato not only served as a distinguished and beloved physician in the Valley, but also as an active participant in Derby’s civic life. From his tenure at Griffin Hospital to his involvement in various organizations and clubs -- including Derby’s board of finance, the Derby Elks, and several medical societies -- his impact in the community resonated beyond his medical practice.

Although Dr. Parlato passed away in 1980 at the age of 94, his memory and legacy endures through his scholarship and the lives he touched. With the scholarship under the stewardship of VCF, a new chapter is unfolding, Tom said.

“When you sit back and look at all he achieved, especially at that time, it’s truly remarkable,” Tom said. “He’s still an inspiration to our family and we think this scholarship will help inspire others.”
Drew Pickering Sr. Memorial Fund

Live like there’s no tomorrow, celebrate big, make memories, cherish old traditions, and never forget to start new ones, laugh, and be happy -- that was Drew Pickering Sr. He was also a wisecracker right up until his last days. Big Drew, as his family fondly called him, embodied the spirit of the Valley. He grew up and lived in Shelton most of his life and when he passed away in 2022, he left a life filled with love for family, friends, and a career in Connecticut manufacturing.

He had a big heart, visions, ideas, and love for his family and friends. But his love for his grandchildren knew no bounds. He became “Papa” to Casey, Sheamus, McKenzie, and Brooks and they were his pride and joy and changed his world.

His journey in manufacturing started after he graduated from Shelton High School in 1965 when he picked up his father’s toolbox and worked his way through the State of Connecticut’s Tool & Diemakers apprenticeship program. Drew started working at Vangor Engineering Corporation in Stratford. In 1968, after completing 8,000 hours of training and technical school, he became a third-generation certified Tool & Diemaker.

The dedication to his craft as a tool and die tradesman spanned decades, leaving an imprint not only in his intricate progressive die designs, products, and machinery he worked with but also in the hearts of colleagues and those he mentored along the way. In 1985, after working through the ranks at different manufacturing companies in the area, Drew expanded his vision for the trades and started his own company, Kingswood Technology, with a longtime friend and coworker, Michael Chernesky, and with the love and support of his wife, Candy Pickering.

“Dad passed down his extensive knowledge of the trade and I was able to complete my State of Connecticut Tool and Diemaker apprenticeship at Kingswood,” said Drew Pickering Jr., Drew’s son.

Thanks to his family, that legacy of love and skilled success will continue through the Drew Pickering Sr. Memorial Fund, established at the Valley Community Foundation by his devoted wife, and their children, Drew Jr., and Nicole Fitzgerald.

The fund aims to carry forward Big Drew’s legacy and desire to keep manufacturing alive in the Valley. It will encourage and steer young people towards the Connecticut Apprenticeship Program for Manufacturing. This will continue throughout generations to come and keep his memory alive, his family said.

“This is a perfect way to honor Dad’s legacy and give back to the Valley he cherished and adored,” Nicole said.

Beel Pesch Family Fund

Olivia Pesch and Ryan Beel are both residents of the Valley. The Beel Pesch Family Fund will be used by the couple to support causes and charities they care about, and some they have yet to discover.

“We really don’t have anything specific in mind just yet,” Olivia said. “But it’s something we can have our family and friends contribute to over time.”

Olivia used to work at the Valley Community Foundation (VCF) when she was in graduate school. Her experience at VCF gave her firsthand knowledge of the impactful work the foundation does.

Olivia and Ryan envision their fund as a legacy that will continue to grow and benefit the community for years to come. They see it as a way to leave a lasting impact in the Valley.

“Thanks to his family, that legacy of love and skilled success will continue through the Drew Pickering Sr. Memorial Fund, established at the Valley Community Foundation by his devoted wife, and their children, Drew Jr., and Nicole Fitzgerald.”
“Our volunteers are the heart and soul of the theater as we know it today,” said Carla Supersano Sullivan, the theater’s Managing Director. “Their passion, dedication, and hard work have been instrumental in shaping the Center Stage Theatre into the vibrant theatrical entity and community it is.”

Center Stage Theatre Building Community Fund

Center Stage Theatre is more than just performances and educational opportunities, it’s a civic instrument that builds community and spreads the arts beyond geographic boundaries.

The theater in Shelton is a local cultural gem that has been entertaining and inspiring the community since 2005. The history of this beloved theater traces its founding to Gary and Francesca Scarpa, a visionary couple whose dream ignited the spark that would become a beacon of the performing arts in the Valley.

In 2023, a new act of the theater’s history began when Center Stage established the Center Stage Theatre Building Community Fund -- a donor designated fund -- to honor the theater’s dedicated volunteers and promote its mission to high-quality theatrical productions, performing arts education and meaningful volunteer opportunities.

“Our volunteers are the heart and soul of the theater as we know it today,” said Carla Supersano Sullivan, the theater’s Managing Director. “Their passion, dedication, and hard work have been instrumental in shaping the Center Stage Theatre into the vibrant theatrical entity and community it is.”

Sullivan said volunteers have always worked tirelessly for every production, ensuring that each show dazzles and leaves a lasting impact. The fund is truly inspired by the indomitable spirit of devoted volunteers, she said, like John Corraro and Justin Zenchuk.

John Corraro, currently the theater’s Board Chair, and Justin Zenchuk, the theater’s Technical Director, began their journey with Center Stage as pre-teens through the theater’s camp program and never left. Sullivan said over the years, they have gone above and beyond, especially during tough times, such as during the COVID-19 pandemic, to keep the theater alive and flourishing.

“John and Justin are two of hundreds of volunteers that help us each year, both on stage and behind the scenes,” Sullivan said. “This fund will be used to acknowledge and support volunteers and their contributions so that Center Stage will continue to shine.”

Throughout the years, Center Stage has grown into a regional cultural hub, producing five full-scale productions annually, including its Youth CONNection summer musical that features a cast of high school and college students. Beyond the mainstage productions, the theater’s commitment to education shines through a wide range of programs for students in grades K-12. From theater arts classes in acting, singing, and dancing to Junior Musicals and opportunities to volunteer backstage, they cultivate the next generation of Valley performers and artists.

“This fund is really about recognizing and thanking all the individuals, past, present and future, who have selflessly given their time and talent,” Sullivan said. “We hope others will join us in acknowledging these wonderful volunteers and how the theater is building community one performance at a time.”

Valley Gave Generously For Great Give!

Valley nonprofits raised more than $404,000 during the 2023 Great Give, making the 36-hour online giving event one of its most successful.

In all, donors in 2023 gave more than $3.4 million through The Great Give, supporting more than 516 nonprofits throughout the Valley and Greater New Haven Region. In the Valley, a record 55 area nonprofits participated, and more than 1,825 donations were made by people who live and/or work in the Valley.

Also, more than $240,000 of the Valley total was donated by 19 Valley Community Foundation (VCF) Donor Advised fundholders.

“Once again Valley residents showed their true colors of generosity,” said Sharon Closius, VCF’s President and CEO. “Our Valley nonprofits do so much, and this year’s Great Give outcome is just more evidence of how appreciative Valley residents are of their nonprofits and the work they do.”
Valley Community Foundation Funds

The Valley Community Foundation (VCF) has been a catalyst for positive change in the region since its founding in 2004. During these years, VCF has helped Valley residents and donors establish more than 260 funds that have had a significant positive impact on the community. This Annual Report fund section lists all the remarkable funds that have helped to improve the lives of Valley individuals and organizations.

Countless numbers of deserving students have been aided by VCF managed scholarships, and funders have provided crucial support to a myriad of area nonprofits, enabling them to carry out their missions more effectively and serve more individuals in need.

Funds managed by VCF have also played a critical role in supporting programs and organizations during times of crisis, such as the COVID-19 pandemic. In a time of great uncertainty and disruption, VCF funds provided critical assistance, helping to ensure that the Valley could weather the storm.

Community Investment

The Valley Community Foundation’s mission is to inspire philanthropic growth, provide and foster leadership, engage donors, and strengthen the Valley community both now and for future generations.

This data reflects discretionary grants made through the Responsive (New and Multi-year), Needs and Opportunities, Sponsorship, and Community Grants programs. It does not include $326,716 in community initiative support. These grant programs would not be possible without the significant financial and staffing contributions provided by our partner in philanthropy, The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven.

The Valley Community Foundation (VCF) and The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven (TCF) have been affiliated for the past 19 years, and the assets entrusted to VCF since 2004 have been invested and managed by TCF. Access to TCF’s commingled investment management program affords VCF funds the benefits of a globally diverse, long-term endowment model by providing direct access to 49 world-class institutional investment managers specializing in distinct and differentiated asset classes and strategies.

After a weak 2022 for both equity and bond markets, 2023 saw a rebound as equity markets rallied to all-time highs. Slowing inflation and a strong labor market paved the way for the Federal Reserve to signal that monetary easing was becoming more probable in the near future, fueling further market gains in the latter half of the year.

The rally was fairly narrow by historical standards, large cap equities and the technology sector were the strongest, buoyed by high expectations around Artificial Intelligence and computer chipmakers. Utilities and energy sectors lagged significantly over the year as overall inflation abated and energy prices fell.

In 2023, VCF’s total return was up 12.7% vs. the benchmark’s 13.7%. While the TCF’s Commingled Fund underperformed, the portfolio fared well in an equity environment that was largely led by the so-called “Magnificent Seven.” TCF’s global equity managers rallied 21.6% and our hedge strategies increased 13.2%. Private real assets fared less well, as commercial real estate and energy holdings saw lower prices. The allocation to private equity struggled too as capital remained harder to obtain than in the past. The Commingled Fund remained well-positioned and diversified in a variety of asset classes, strategies, and geographies.

As displayed in the chart, the annualized net return of the Commingled Fund has lagged in recent periods but has meaningfully exceeded the market benchmark over longer periods. The Commingled Fund also benchmarks its performance against the Endowment and Foundation peer group, which has placed the Commingled Fund in the top fifth of this national study in each of the last 10 years ended December 2023.

The Gates Society

A key component, if not the heart and soul of the Valley Community Foundation (VCF), is the permanent endowment funds managed by VCF that will always support the needs of the Valley. Some prefer to plan their gifts to the Valley after they no longer need the assets. These are the members of our Gates Society.

Among these generous members is Ned Miller, a retired insurance executive and well-known businessman within the Valley. In 2023, Miller’s journey into local philanthropy took a significant step when he decided to establish a Testamentary Fund which is a future plan to create a permanent VCF fund to support causes and nonprofits he cares about.

“For me, creating a testamentary fund was about leaving a lasting impact on the community I hold dear,” Miller said. “It’s a way to ensure that my charitable wishes are fulfilled long after I’m gone, and that my love for this region endures.”

Miller’s sentiment reflects the core of testamentary funds at VCF -- a visionary and worry-free approach to philanthropy.

“VCF understood my philanthropic goals and worked with me to create a plan that truly reflected my values,” he said. “The flexibility to modify my plan as needed without the hassle of legal complications was invaluable.”

The Gates Society’s mission is clear and its impact profound. Along with leaving an endowment to the Valley through VCF, Gates Society members honor the legacy of the two brothers the society is named for: Ross and Frank Gates. Their benevolent spirit continues to shape the fabric of our community through their visionary trusts established in 1938. The Gates brothers laid the foundation for the creation of VCF and inspired many in the tradition of giving that endures to this day.

At VCF, a Testamentary Fund can be created during your lifetime and contains your philanthropic plan. You may have multiple charitable interests that you would like to leave as a charitable beneficiary in your estate. You name the fund at VCF in your estate plan and when we receive your assets, we will carry out your wishes. During your lifetime, your plan can be modified at any time without the expense of an attorney.

By establishing a testamentary fund at VCF, individuals can ensure that their legacy of giving transcends time, leaving an indelible mark on the Valley and its people for generations to come.

The Valley Community Foundation (VCF) partners with The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven (TCF) to carry out its mission in Ansonia, Derby, Oxford, Seymour, and Shelton. This relationship provides VCF with access to the strength of TCF, which was established in 1928 and is one of the oldest and largest community foundations in the United States and remains the largest grant-maker to nonprofits serving a twenty-town region in the heart of central Connecticut. VCF shares a CFO and uses TCF’s investment expertise, programming, and development knowledge. This strong relationship provides VCF with an immediate support structure that allows its Board of Directors to focus on leadership and development. VCF wishes to thank TCF staff and all the volunteers for their time, contributions, and expertise.
For Good. For Ever.
For the Valley.
